

Play Therapy

Adults can convey how they think and feel with words and phrases however, that can be a difficult task for children. Play is a child's natural mode of expression, therefore, we utilize play to help children express thoughts and communicate feelings more easily and safely through toys, games, art, books and other play activities.